"I'm ill, and I can't get home." The prima donna stared at the young woman, whose increasing pallor she could not help noticing. Before she could answer the girl reeted and fell fainting to the street. Nordica literally carried the young woman back to her own apartments, close by, revived her, and took her home in a carriage. There she remained with the young woman's parents for hours, watching over the invalid, whom she finally left reluctantly. On Christmas Day Nordica received an exquisitely written letter, admirably extreed. Watman, Business Manager, M. Rosenthal, "I was the sweetest Christmas gift that came to her. Stage anecdotes were being fold in the lobby of the Grand Opera-House last night. Somebody related this one: "I was in Buffalo the other night, talking with a group in which was John Kernell, who comes here next week with 'The Hustler.' In the party was a bad actor, who was complaining of harsh treatment from newspapers. Why, he said, they actually called me a raw performer! Think of it, raw! 'You have them there,' put in Kernell, 'you can't be raw, who have been roasted so often.'"

An actor was telling yesterday of an dious Christmas card that was sent unday to a well-known star, who is omewhat mature. After the conventional rectings and pleasant wishes come these

Daly's company has the honor of being burlesqued in the sketch called "Under ine Clock," by Brookheld and Seymour Hicks, now running in London. It is a travesty of everything that is going on, and it is said to be witty, smart, but ephemeral, Daly's company is parodied with "The Foresters," A man enterly in full mail armor, with the Union Jack on his chest and the Stars and Stripes on his back. He says, "I'm Echard Court-de-Lion, you bet," in a broad, Western arcent, and the audience havis with laughter.

"The Evening World's" story of Daly's difficulty with Sardou on account of the playwright's delivery to another manager of a play similar to one which Daly had ordered for himself, and paid $M,009 on account, has caused no end of talk on the Risito. It is now said that the manager who got the similar play was none to other than Daly's old rival. Charles Frohman, and that the play was written around none other than Daly's old leading man, John Drew. No wonder that this was the last straw to break the camel's back. Charles Frohman was in Boston yesterday; but it is not likely that diplomacy will allow him to talk on the subject.

Coquelly is hopelessly enamored of Sardon's "Thermidor," and it is for that reason that it is announced as the opening attraction of the Coquelin-Hading engagement at Abbey's Theatre next Monday. He declares that it is the greatest play in his repertoire, and shows Sardon at his best. When we saw it with Miss Elsie de Wolfe in the leading role we also heard that the play was Sardon at his best, and we immediately yearned to see him at his worst in preference.

The stories that are printed in the Erg inspect of the huge successes of English actors and plays in this country are downright funny. Wilson Barrett, it appears, has made an unqualified hit: "A Women of No Importance" has taken the town by storm, and Irving's production of "Henry VIII." (the least interesting feature of his repertoire) has achieved the greatest triumph of the second.

FIRE CAUSES A CHURCH PANIC.

One Man Fatally Burned and Several Persons Seriously Injured.

(By Associated Press.)

MILLERSBURG. O., Dec. 27.—At the Sand Run Methodist Church the usual Christmas festival was held Monday night with a cotton snow-house and Santa Claus clothed in cotton. The costume of Harry Duncyn. who was playing Santa Claus, caught fire from a candle, and he was fatally burned.

A panic ensued. A woman threw her child through the window and another woman leaped out. Mrs. John Calhoun was trampled on and probably fatally hurt. Three others were seriously injured, and almost every one cize was more or less injured.
